Rosso's Cafe, a Landmark From Another Era, Closes After 48 Years in Business

Rosso's Cafe of 16 Spring Street, the last workingman's bar in Princeton's central business district, closed over the weekend, after almost 48 years of operation.

Henry Rosso Jr., the son of the original owner, has worked in the bar since he came home from the war in 1945. Now approaching retirement age, Mr. Rosso decided "it was time to quit while I was ahead."

On Friday Mr. Rosso is scheduled to close the sale of the building to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Tuchman of 633 Prospect Avenue. The Tuchmans, who also own the building occupied by PJ's Pancake House, will lease space in the Rosso building to Chuck Hector, a 1978 Princeton University graduate and former PJ's manager, who is expected to operate a restaurant there. Mr. Rosso's liquor license is being sold separately to a corporation headed by Joseph Parvin of 37 Fieldstone Road, who has not yet determined a location for its use.

Rosso's closed in much the same manner as it had operated for a half century – with little ceremony.

In its earliest form, the bar on Spring Street was a speakeasy, located in the rear portion of the eventual barroom and accessible through a side door in a narrow passageway between two buildings. It was one of a half dozen or more speakeasies that flourished in the central business district in those days.

After prohibition was repealed, in December, 1933, Henry Rosso Sr. opened the bar to the Spring Street side. But even as Rosso's Cafe, the place always kept a low profile.

It was, from the beginning, a shot and a beer place – no fancy mixed drinks. Light lunches – hamburgers, hot dogs, pork roll, and soups – also were served. Many years ago Rosso's had a juke box. It did not stay long. Rosso's had a dart board for a brief period of time. The bar never had a pool table or a pinball machine. The shrill sounds of the new video machines have never been heard within Rosso's Cafe.

The biggest change in the bar in recent years has been the price of a drink. When it opened 48 years ago a 10 or 12 ounce draft of beer cost either a nickel or a dime – Henry Rosso Jr. cannot remember exactly. Until a decade ago a beer still only cost 15 cents. When the last beer was drawn on Saturday, the cost was 45 cents for about six ounces.

END OF AN ERA: Rosso's Cafe was short on atmosphere—it had flourescent lights, linoleum floor, a tired television set, and a cigaret machine—but it was long on the color and characters of the Princeton scene. It closed Saturday after 48 years.

Those who frequented Rosso's often did so because of the low prices. But others, who could afford to drink anywhere in town, preferred Rosso's because of its lack of pretension and its leisurely pace. It was one of few Princeton bars that counted blacks and whites among its regulars.

Planning Board Votes 9-1 To Approve Collins' Plans

Praised by even the two Planning Board members who did not vote "yes," Collins Development's preliminary plans for an expanded Palmer Square were approved by the board last Thursday, 9-1 with one abstention. The vote came at 1:10 Friday morning, after a five and one-half hour final hearing.

The approval carries a list of conditions, shaped by the board in consultation with Collins' vice-president James Harvie III and the firm's attorney, Thomas C. Jamieson. Actually, the plan was approved substantially as it was submitted.

Highlights:

• The Chambers Street parking garage must be built first. If Collins starts construction on anything else before the garage is completed, the Planning Board must give its approval.

• A "lantern" building – so called because it is usually described as made of glass – opposite the present post office will be reduced from 5,000 to 3,000 square feet and re-designed, possibly in a "u" shape with courtyard facing the post office building.

• The Planning Board reserves the right to impose new conditions as a result of the review, now in progress, of Collins' traffic study. That review will be completed August 29. The board has 45 days from that date to go over the report and decide what to do.

• Collins will be limited to 1,000 cars in its two garages.

• The board recommends that Borough Council require Collins to provide spaces for car pool vehicles; arrange for fringe parking at Jadwin Gymnasium and work out van pool arrangements.

• Collins must devise a temporary parking and circulation plan for use while construction is in progress.

• A new landscape plan must be submitted, showing more evergreens and the preservation, wherever possible, of existing trees.

• Sidewalks must be at a different level from the street, separated by curbs. Materials used must reflect what is now used in Princeton.

• A fountain is to remain in the One Palmer Square courtyard, either the present fountain or another. A small kiosk will be in the southwest quadrant of that square, and the overhang of the present buildings will be kept, to provide shelter.

• Any materials and colors used must be "harmonious" with the design and material of what is in existence now.

• If Collins acquires the present post office building from the Federal government, the murals are to be kept and preserved. Collins has said that it plans to remove the wings from the post office building, to provide more open space.

• Space provided on the deck for cultural or entertainment purposes is to be enclosed, so that the space can be used year 'round.

Tax Revolt Committee Being Formed; Will Consider Suit Against Jacobs Firm

A new "Princeton Township-Borough Tax Revolt Committee," forged during a heated meeting last Friday, will hold another meeting this Friday, not for debate, but to accept contributions from members (see advertisement, page 17).

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club on Terhune Road.

Co-chairmen of the group are George Pinelli for the Township and Martin P. Lombardo for the Borough. The organization has retained Louis Parker III, a Certified Public Accountant, who donated his time last Friday to explain to the audience the way you go about deferring payment of your taxes, and the financial penalty you must pay.

It is expected that a lawyer will be retained, also. Residents are being asked to pay $25 each to pay for the experts.

Sewer Ban Lifted by State; Imposed Here 8½ Years Ago

Princeton's sewer ban is over. Imposed by the state eight and one-half years ago – in February, 1973 – the ban was, in effect, lifted this week through execution of the consent agreement between the state's Department of Environmental Protection, and the Borough and Township through Princeton's Sewer Operating Committee.

Property-owners should now get on the SOC's waiting list, advises SOC secretary and Borough engineer George Olexa. The agreement allows the SOC to sell the available volume at $8 a gallon for residential use. For a three-bedroom house, using the standard calculation of 100 gallons per bedroom, the fee is $2,400. Commercial calculations use a different formula.

Money will be used to repair Princeton's ancient and leaking sewers. With $100,000 already set aside by Borough and Township, repair will move ahead within the next two weeks, Mr. Olexa said. The contract was scheduled to be awarded this Tuesday to Davies Brothers Construction.

Sewer Ban Lifted

Under this first contract, about 180,000 gallons of water will be saved, but a great deal of water must be saved in proportion to the amount of sewerage that can be allowed in. Under the four-to-one ratio that is used, the new contract will only provide about 45,000 more gallons. That is, however, a lot of three-bedroom houses.

The first round, incidentally, is already spoken for. The state made a 10,000-gallon advance for the new Peterson's Guides office complex on Bunn Drive, the Constitution Hill project and Nassau Builders' Greenbriar development off Stuart Road.

Tax Revolt

The group waa formed in response to sharp tax increases experienced by many property owners, partly as a result of last year's revaluation of properties and partly as a result of higher taxes all around.

The target of the Tax Revolt Committee, however, is revaluation generally, and the PRC Jacobs firm in particular. A research committee will be organized, Mr. Lombardo said this week, to tabulate inaccuracies in the Jacobs' descriptions of houses.

"We will explore the possibility of legal action against Jacobs for breach of contract," Mr. Lombardo declared. "We want to know how much time was spent training the people who surveyed houses, how much supervision they had, how many times they failed to enter a house.

"We also want to know why Borough and Township officials themselves aren't doing this," Mr. Lombardo continued, "and why they accepted the Jacobs' report."

Mr. Lombardo also vowed revenge against municipal office-holders who voted for revaluation and for the Jacobs contract.

Cawley Replies. Meanwhile, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley had a few words to say about Mr. Lombardo himself. "I have very strong feelings about Marty's role in this," the mayor told reporters this week, "If he had gone along with revaluation in 1970 or the early 70s when he was on Council, the problem would be nowhere near as severe as it is now.

"You cannot avoid revaluation year after year, without this kind of painful consequence, and Marty Lombardo was prominent among those blocking it."

The mayor repeated state law: the Borough must provide in next year's budget for taxes not collected this year.

"Deferring your taxes is like burning your own neighborhood," the mayor stated, "why engage in a practice that will raise taxes next year? Why, we might even have to borrow money to meet the payroll, if many people withhold their taxes. This whole discussion is weird.

"We hold public meetings on the budget, and people come and demand that we restore money for the agency they're in love with. The heat we took on the Rescue Squad and the Senior Citizens Resource Center and the library, is indicative."

Township Will File Tax Appeals for Those with Errors in Bill; Homeowners Differing with Revaluation Must File Their Own

If you are a Township home-owner with an actual mistake on your tax assessment card, the Township will file your tax appeal for you without charge.

This does not apply to home-owners who simply differ with their revaluation. These must file their own tax appeals. The deadline is next Monday, August 17.

The reason for the Township's action is that PRC Jacobs, the firm that did the revaluation for both Township and Borough, made what Township Mayor Josie Hall calls "an egregious error" in the Township---a $92 million error, in fact.

You'll recall that last September, you received a letter from the Township. The letter suggested you use the figure of $1.74 per $100 of assessed valuation, and your new assessment, to figure out what your taxes might have been in 1980 if revaluation had been in effect.

The $1.74 was based on Jacob's figure of $732 million as the overall assessed valuation for the Township.

That was in September. By the end of the year, when Township officials began preparing the budget and asking the tax office for the assessed valuation, it turned out to be only $640.6 million---$92 million less than the Jacobs figure. That meant the Township should have given you $1.94 to work with, not $1.74.

Errors Not Detected. Taxpayers who multiplied by $1.74 may have shrugged, said, "Not too bad," and not bothered to question their new assesament. This means that errors----like the assessment for a non-existent basement, or inaccurate square-footage---were not detected in many cases.

The discrepancy was discovered in mid-July, as complaints from home-owners with new tax bills began to pile up in Township offices.

So far, nobody knows where Jacobs' error lay. The firm has been told by the Township to go back over all its records, and report on the findings.

Township officials have not discussed the possibility of bringing suit against the firm, according to Administrator Joseph R. Nini.

"It's too early for such a discussion," he said. "We really don't know the extent of the errors, or why there was the $92 million discrepancy."

The Township tax office is in the Valley Road Building and cards may be examined there. The office is open from 9-4 weekdays.

"Institutionalized" Look of PCH's 89 Units Draws Questions from EDRC Chairman

"If you could do something to relieve the mass," observed Ulrich Frank thoughtfully as he looked at the architect's rendering of Princeton Community Housing's 89-unit apartment building. "It looks so like an institution."

Dr. Frank, chairman of the Environmental Design Review Committee, suggested at Monday night's EDRC meeting that architect William Dix's dark red brick and cream stucco might be deployed in ways that would make the five-story building less formidable.

Then he sighed: "We must get used to big buildings downtown.'

The building is planned for the eastern section of the parking lot next to the library. It would face Witherspoon, with a rear courtyard.

The suggestion to use the brick and stucco to "break the scale," will be the chief comment from the EDRC to the Planning Board. PCH is scheduled for the Planning Board's September 8 meeting for site plan approval.

Through the Maze. On the way to final, clear approval, PCH must thread its way along a maze. In July, it won approval from the Borough Zoning Board under the "C", or "hardship" section of the law. This means PCH must now go to the Planning Board for site plan approval.

If PCH had won Zoning Board approval under the "D", or "special reasons" section of the law, PCH would have had to take its site plans, not to the Planning Board, but back to the Zoning Board.

A.C. Reeves Hicks, PCH attorney, said after the EDRC meeting, that he will show PCH's plans to the Zoning Board anyway, even though that body will not have jurisdiction.

In his presentation to the EDRC, Mr. Dix emphasized that PCH has no control over any "Plaza" that might be built on the rest of the parking lot, nor does the non-profit organization play any part in determining the number of parking spaces that might be left on the lot for library users.

'Spring' Questions. Because "Spring Street," next to the new building, was not named "spring" for nothing, questions about water-level were raised by EDRC members. In the 18th century, a farm and its pond were once on part of the site.

Mr. Dix said that borings did not show a pond. A dozen borings found bedrock at four to 13 feet, he reported. Asked whether, considering the 18th century farm, an archeological survey might not be required, Mr. Dix replied: "I admit I did overlook the question of archaeological findings in a pond 14 feet below grade."

The service area of the building would be reached by going in from Wiggins along the present library drive-way—to be doubled in width—and out to Wiggins on the other side of the Public Service building. Borough negotiations with Public Service, now in progress, are "critical" to the PCH building, Mr. Dix said.

Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley, commenting on PCH's progress through the maze, said that with the rateables an expanded Palmer Square will provide, "We can afford to be generous in what I regard as a community need. PCH will have a modest impact on parking and a minimal impact on traffic. Its chief effect is the requirement to build the Tulane Street garage, and in its early years, this will indeed have a negative side, financially."

On the Master Plan, as adopted by the Planning Board, the parking lot site is designated for housing -- "elderly preferred."

TOPICS Of The Town

SIX ARRESTS MADE

For Burglary, Shoplifting. In the past week Borough Police arrested six individuals, including two juveniles, in four separate cases of burglaries and shoplifting.

George Tkacs, 30, of 252 North Harrison Street, was arrested August 5 at 6:38 p.m. after police responded to a call from University proctors, reporting a burglary in progress at the biochemistry laboratory on William Street. A suspect was reported leaving the building through a ground floor window.

Detective William Fitch and Officer William Nathan arrested Mr. Tkacs behind the Princeton University Press building, also on William Street. He was released after being issued a complaint summons.

Proctors called police again last Saturday night at 11:30 to report the sighting of a man attempting to enter cars on University Place.

Sgt. Ronald Holliday and Patrolman John Reading investigated and arrested Peter Czumbil, 21, of Ewing, inside the conductor's office at the train station. The police reported that a screen had been cut and that the suspect had a four-inch bone handle knife. He was charged with burglary, attempted theft, and possession of a deadly weapon and was transported to the Mercer County jail in lieu of bail.

Released, Then Arrested. Employees of Ricchards shoe store at 150 Nassau Street called police Saturday afternoon to report that a man and woman had walked out of the store with six pairs of ladies shoes valued at $215. At 4:47 police found two people matching the descriptions of the shoplifters in the Tulane parking yard. But they had no shoes in their possession and were released.

At 5:36 p.m. another police patrol observed the same couple on Spring Street, this time carrying a canvas shopping bag filled with what appeared to be shoes. The shoes matched the description given by store employees. Police arrested Rahman Shabbaz, 25, and Brenda Parson, 21, both of New Brunswick. They were scheduled to appear in Borough Court September 2.

Gardener's Lament

Buckets of rain,
Buckets of sun,
Tomatoes, zucchinis
And weeds on the run.

Gardens this past week got a good dose of both sun and rain, and those all-day showers Saturday were a welcome sight for most people, even if they spoiled a day at the beach.

Plenty of sun is forecast for the rest of this week accompanied by lower humidity and a chance of showers in the afternoon. Temperatures will range from the mid-eighties to low 90's.

called police last Friday to report the shoplifting of a 40-cent ice cream bar by a 17-year-old Skillman resident. The police said that they then received a call at the station from a 16-year-old Princeton Township resident, claiming to be the store manager and telling police that they were no longer needed.

Police arrived anyway and charged the 17-year-old with shoplifting, the 18-year-old with reporting false information, and both with possession of marijuana. When their parents refused to take custody of the youths, they were taken to the facility in Trenton for juveniles in need of supervision.

GIRL SATISFACTORY

After Moped Crash. Dawn L. Obert, 17, of 162 Jefferson Road, was in satisfactory condition this week in the Princeton Medical Center after suffering multiple injuries last Wednesday in a moped accident.

Police said that Miss Obert was riding a moped east on Nassau Street at about 9:15 p.m. when she apparently attempted to make a left hand turn onto North Harrison Street. Her moped moved into the path of a car driven by Barry S. Seemon, 19, of 29 Bainbridge Street, who was traveling west on Nassau Street.

Obert, whose father, J. Edwin Obert, is captain of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, was transported by the squad to the Medical Center. She was treated by doctors Joe Hamlet and Roger Moseley and admitted to the hospital's intensive care unit.

Police issued her a summons for an unsafe left turn.

Car Parker Struck. A car operated by Marjorie Montagu of 321 Cherry Hill Road was struck in the rear August 3 as she was attempting to parallel park on Nassau Street, between Moore and Vandeventer. Mrs. Montagu, who reported back pains and difficulty moving her legs, was taken to the Medical Center, where she was treated and released.

Police said that her car was struck by one driven by Lee D. Stein of East Windsor. The accident occurred at 1:52 p.m.

Stopped Car Hit. Police issued a traffic summons to Cornelia H. Scott of 251 Edgerstoune Road last Wednesday after her car struck another car stopped for a red light on Witherspoon Street, at the corner of Wiggins.

Alice Gibbs of 10 Maple Terrace was the driver of the stopped car. She complained of pain in her neck and left shoulder and was treated and released at the Medical Center. Police said that the road was wet from a recent rainstorm at the time of the accident, shortly after noon.

WOMAN FOUND GUILTY

Of Telephone Harrassment. Borough Magistrate Russell W. Annich Jr. sentenced Marinnne Allshouse, 20, of Pretty Brook Road, to six months probation for telephone harrassment.

In Township Court Judge Sydney S. Souter found the same defendant guilty of similar charges. He postponed sentencing to await a report from the Mercer County

FUN AND SEX

At Kresge. The combination of Luis Bunuel and Bertrand Blier is a titillating directorial pairing for summertime, and McCarter's Summer Cinema will combine them in the next double bill, scheduled to be screened at Kresge Auditorium from this Wednesday through Sunday.

"Get Out Your Handkerchiefs" has a young husband who can't get his wife to laugh, make luve, or take an interest in anything. Despairing, he turns her over to another young man who has no luck along these lines, either.

Finally, the wife meets a 13-year-old boy who knows precisely what she wants and becomes, for her, a brother, son, lover, father and husband. McCarter calls it "a comedy of the new morality ... with Blier's own brand of humor, style and wisdom."

"Belle du Jour" features Catherine Deneuve as the neurotic wife who cannot feel worthy of her husband's love unless she degrades herself. She slips away from home in the afternoons to serve as a prostitute for the local madam.

Bunuel plays with his theme until the audience doesn't know whether the wife has really become a whore, or whether it's only a fantasy in her mind. "Seldom," says McCarter, "have sex and sado-masochism been delineated with more application and fun."

AND IN PENNINGTON ...

Library Movies. Frankenstein and Flash Gordon share the billing with a quintet of cartoons as "Movies for August" moves on at the Pennington Public Library, 24 North Main Street.

This Friday, the library will show highlights from several Frankenstein movies including "Bride of Frankenstein," "Son of Frankenstein" and "Frankenstein Meets the Wolfman," all filmed between 1931 and 1939.

Next Friday, it will be "Rocketship," with Buster

'FLEDERMAUS'

At Showcase. "Die Fledermaus," the Johann Straus opera produced on Broadway some years ago as "Rosalinda," will be presented at the Artists Showcase Theatre in Trenton this Friday and Saturday and next Friday and Saturday, August 21 and 22. Curtain-time is 8:30.

The fun begins with the recounting of an episode from the college days of Falke and von Eisenstein. It seems that Falke, dressed as a bat for a masquerade ball, collapsed in a drunken snooze on the way home, and was left by Eisenstein on a park bench for the pleasure of Sunday morning strollers.

Falke seeks revenge with the complicated plot of marital infidelity that is "Die Fledermaus" - "The Bat."

Rosalinda, the wife of von Eisenstein, will be sung by Rita Fitzpatrick on one weekend, and Colleen Tron the other. Samuel Abraham will be von Eisenstein.

Dr. Falke will be sung by Daniel Boone and Benjamin Seabrook, one on the first week-end and another on the second. Rosalinda's former suitor will be Lynn Roccograndi.

The role of the von Eisenstein's maid, Adele, will be shared by three singers: Maria Tegzes, Lydia Ricci and Vicki Snyder. Robert Parrish will sing the prison warden, and two singers - Christine Rich and Christine Molis - will share the part of Prince Orlofsky.

The supporting cast consists of Jack Brady, Linda Tauras, Lona Marchetti, Dominick Latini and Brian Bara. Byron Steele is directing.

To Central Park!

Princeton Street Theatre has been invited to take its production of Lanford Wilson's "Rimers of Eldritch" to Central Park and it will play there this week-end.

Street Theatre says times and dates are still tentative, but the play will be given either this Friday at 7 p.m. or this Saturday at 6:30. This Thursday at 7 p.m. in Princeton, Street Theatre will perform its summer children's play, "Cinderella, Cinderella" at Princeton Community Village. This Friday, "Cinderella" will be given at noon in the New Jersey State Museum, and this Saturday at 2, it will play at the Brunswick Square Mall.

Back in Princeton, it will be given next Tuesday at 2 at Littlebrook School and next Wednesday, August 19, at 7:30 at Spruce Circle.

Reservations may be made at either 883-1775 or 392-2433.

NAMED TO FACULTY

Potentially Dangerous.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Three weeks ago I wrote the following letter to another local paper:

"The new intersection of Mercer Street and Quaker Bridge Road is, at the very least, potentially hazardous. When hash marks and arrows on Mercer Street are not clearly and well painted the intersection is critically dangerous. That is the situation now.

Can't the hash marks and arrows be regularly and clearly painted to prevent traffic accidents?"

This letter and subsequent telephone calls to Township officials brought three dismaying responses. The first, that plans now underway will solve the problem by sometime in the fall; second, that in light of these future plans it is not worth spending $300 to repaint the arrows and hash marks which would require still greater cost to remove for the fall project; and third, there have been no fatalities or serious accidents thus far.

There was common agreement that the current situation is potentially dangerous (or else they wouldn't go to still greater cost to reconstruct the area). However, the price is too high to avert accidents which may not happen.

Shall we just trust to luck?

Tax Appeal Filed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter I have sent to the Mercer County Board of Taxation:

Thank you for sending me the Petition of Appeal Forms. My appeal is not for a revision of the assessment, but is based on the increased tax rate of $2.08 against the $1.74 rate that Mayor Josephine H. Hall included in her September 4, 1980 letter to estimate our new assessment, or total taxes.

Had our tax rate stayed at $1.74 per $100, my taxes would be $2,202.84 rather than $2,633.28, or a difference of $420.44, a 20 per cent tax increase.

The 20 per cent tax rate increase appears unfair and would be a lot simpler to reduce than the time and money involved for further property re-assessment.

Why compound an issue that has a simple solution and in the process save the State and tax payers time and money?

"War Requiem" Magnificent.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Once again Westminster Choir College has deeply enriched the life of this community with its presentation of Benjamin Britten's magnificent "War Requiem."

For the hundreds of musicians performing so superbly the highly complex work conducted by Robert Shaw, and for the hushed audience packing the University Chapel, the evening will be remembered with satisfaction and gratitude.

Tax Explanation Offered.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Having been a sponsor of the legislation that authorized the recent revaluation in the Borough I feel compelled, although I am now again a resident of the Township, to submit this public statement in partial response to those residents who have had their property taxes increased by what appear to be excessive amounts. When the revaluation ordinance was adopted by Borough Council it was recognized that some property owners would have large increases in their tax assessments. Their objections are understandable.

The comments here presented will not alleviate their agony from payment of higher taxes, but it is my hope to provide a wider comprehension of our local tax situation.

All communities throughout the United States are being adversely affected by inflationary costs following a period in which municipal services have been expanded in response to federal inducements, state mandates without corresponding financial assistance, and the demands of local citizens. Most municipalities find themselves in a very tight financial squeeze. Even with the five percent cap law in New Jersey the result has been ever ascending real estate taxes.

It must be recognized that in New Jersey property taxes carry a disproportionate share of the burden of public funding. A more equitable source is the state income tax which after much opposition was instituted in New Jersey at relatively low rates, and then only with the aid of a political gimmick of property tax rebates.

It should also be noted that of the property taxes collected by the Borough of Princeton approximately 37 percent is assessed by Mercer County and 43 percent by our local public schools, leaving only 20 percent for municipal operations. Since the revision of our county form of government, we have had an aggressive administration accompanied by higher expenses.

With respect to the Princeton Regional Schools, for the past two decades they have experienced conditions that have prevented costs from being reduced despite a marked reduction in student enrollment. (Think how much higher the costs would have been without merger of the previous two school systems.)

Local school costs have been influenced by various factors. Insufficient planning over a decade ago on the part of the then administration and Board of Education resulted in the granting of tenure on a rather liberal basis even when it had been noted that impending reductions in enrollments would reduce the need for such tenured teaching personnel. The result has been a generally competent but high cost teaching staff.

Some special programs, financially viable with a larger student population, have proven exorbitantly expensive for a smaller number of students. All school personnel has become unionized and forceful in gaining economic goals, a situation with which the Board of Education only belatedly was prepared adequately to deal.

Furthermore, the fumbling on the part of the administration and the Board of Education almost a decade ago in addressing the recommendations of its Citizens' Advisory Committee on Long Range Planning and the subsequent temporary defeats of the school bond issue at the polls led to increased costs in hundreds of thousands of dollars for the recent, scaled down renovation of the high school.

These and other factors, such as greater sewer charges, have been reflected in higher taxes for all real estate owners in Princeton.

More recently the defeat in the Borough of the recommendations from the Princeton Joint Municipal consolidation Study Commission has prevented implementation of savings through consolidation and more efficient operation of departments of the Borough and Township. The negative action of a small majority of the Borough voters has also prevented all Borough residents from sharing with the Township the benefits of the tax rates that are currently lower in the Township than in the Borough.

The above outlined factors, as well as others, affect all property owners in the Borough in a similar manner, whereas revaluation has had the effect of raising taxes on some properties and lowering them on others to reflect changing market values. The irritations have naturally been aroused on the part of those property owners whose taxes have been raised by an amount that seems excessive to them.

I urge all who consider their tax assessments to be incorrect to file an official appeal in the manner legally provided. As they do so, however, I hope that they will recognize that any large differences in taxes between this past year and the current year have been created primarily by the long and improper delay in instituting revaluation in the Borough.

If revaluation had been conducted on a frequent basis, as state law stipulates, the great disparities that currently exist in some situations between the past and present years' taxes would never have occurred, and there would not now be appeals for abatement of taxes.

Abatement of taxes for one element of our population, for example, senior citizens, would mean increased taxes for others, such as hard-pressed younger families with children to educate and merchants, some of whom are at present having considerable difficulties in meeting their financial commitments.

As citizens of the community of Princeton what can we do to help control the growth in property taxes in the future? A number of things:

1. Support revaluation of our local real estate on a regular yearly basis and thus avoid the current situation in which a few individuals are confronted with an excessive jump in their property taxes in the period of a single year.

2. Support greater reliance on revenue from the state income tax and reduce reliance on revenue from property taxes. This will require action by the New Jersey State Legislature and Governor.

3. Limit our demands for expansion in local municipal and county services that require increased costs. It is ironic, for example, that some senior citizens who are understandably objecting to their increased tax bills are at the same time exerting political pressure on the Mayor and Borough Council to appropriate larger funds for senior citizen activities.

4. Insist that the Borough Council and Township Committee jointly review and seriously consider the recommendations contained in the November 8, 1979 Concluding Report of the Princeton Joint Municipal Consolidation Study Commission. There are ways by which the municipal services for the community of Princeton can be improved and made more cost effective, ways which were recommended by this elected Commission that neither governing body has even explored.

5. Monitor the decisions and activities of the Mercer County government to assure that all the services it provides are both necessary and cost effective.

8. Support the Board of Education, the administration and staff of the Princeton Regional Schools in their efforts to reduce costs consistent with maintenance of good education for the youth of the community, recognizing that such efforts might include decisions as the closing of another school building, some further reduction in transportation for children, the elimination of some additional special programs, or further reduction in school personnel.

7. Recognize that Princeton is one community and insist that the two governments of the Borough and Township conduct their activities to reflect this fact. For example, holding separate hearings for the cable television franchise, as was insisted upon by the majority of the members of Borough Council, was a waste of time and money, part of which is reflected in our local property taxes.

It is most unlikely that we can reduce our total taxes in Princeton but it is very possible that we could slow the rate of increase if we undertake a cooperative effort to pursue the recommendations just presented plus other recommendations that other citizens of the community may suggest.

WILLIAM K. SELDEN
Constitution Hill

(Editor's note: As a member of Borough Council, where he sat from November, 1976 to January 1, 1979, Mr. Selden voted for revaluation. He was elected to the Princeton Consolidation Study Commission in 1978, and had previously served as chairman of the 1970 Citizens Advisory Committee for Long Range Planning for the public schools.)

Rotary Dues Questioned.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter sent to Dale Madden, president of the Princeton Regional Schools' Board of Education.

The Joint Commission on Civil Rights notes with concern the decision you have taken to pay the dues of Superintendent Paul Houston for membership in the Rotary Club.

We believe it inappropriate for public funds to be expended in support of a private organization which bars women from membership. We strongly urge you to rescind this decision.

UTILITY CREDIT SET

For Elderly who Are Eligible. Applications for the Lifeline utility credit program will go out this month to eligible New Jersey residents.

Under the program, elderly and disabled individuals will receive a $150 credit which will be applied by utility companies to natural gas and electric bills.

This is the first year that tenants whose utility cost are included in their rental will be able to benefit from the Lifeline program. Tenants who do not pay utility bills directly, will receive a $150 check toward increased cost of utilities. Only one person in a household is entitled to the credit.

If you receive Supplemental Security Income, you do not need to apply for Lifeline, because the benefit will be automatically added to your monthly check.

To qualify for the program, you must be a New Jersey resident, have an annual income of less than $9000 if single, and less than $12,000 jointly if married, must be receiving benefits from Social Security Disability, Medicaid Only, and Medical or Pharmaceutical Assistance to the Aged. LET'S TALK ABOUT

MID-SUMMER MITES
with Sam De Turo
Woodwinds Associates

If you have not applied a "Red Spider" (Miticide) spray to your evergreens earlier this summer, you may be alarmed by yellowing, dried-out foliage...sure signs of mite infestation. Red Spider mites can be found on a wide range of plants, but evergreens are usually affected most.

These pests produce several generations during the course of a single season, and during hot, dry weather their population expansion is sensational

Spraying is the appropriate control for the insect, the recommended material is Kelthane (dicofol), and, due to the fact that the spray will not affect the eggs, another spray two-to-three weeks after the first may be required for satisfactory control

It is rather easy to tell if mites are the cause of the disturbing symptoms you may be seeing

- Hold a piece of white paper or cardboard beneath a branch. Then, tap or shake the branch. If mites are present they will appear as tiny black specks, the size of a speck of pepper, and will soon begin to run across the paper

- One note on shrubs. both evergreen and deciduous shrubs sould be allowed to "harden off" prior to autumn.. on no account should you prune or feed with a fast-acting fertilizer, this would only stimulate new growth which will be susceptiole to winter injury Wait till next spring to do your pruning, please! Also, be sure to keep your evergreens very well watered during Septemoer .in fact, they should be watered all fall until the ground freezes If you add some sort of organic mulch, you will help them enormously.

If you have any questions or concerns about your valuable trees and shrubs, please feel free to call WOODWINDS for the answers!

SPEAKERS ANNOUNCED

For Arms Race Conference. C. William Maynes, former Assistant Secretary of State for International Organization Affairs, and George F. Kennan, former U.S. Ambassador to the U.S.S.R., will be among the speakers for the second annual conference on the proliferation of nuclear weapons here.

The two-day event will be held Saturday evening, September 26, and Sunday, September 27, at Nassau Presbyterian Church, 61 Nassau Street. The conference will have as its theme, "The Choice Is Ours: Confronting the Nuclear Arms Race." It is being presented by the Coalition to Reverse the Nuclear Arms Race, 20 Nassau Streat, and 23 area churches and other religious organizations.

Mr. Maynes will lead off a series of lectures and discussions Saturday evening with a keynote address on the current crisis in the escalation of nuclear weapons to which Mr. Kennan will respond. Currently editor of Foreign Policy, the quarterly review published by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, Mr. Maynes is a former Foreign Service Officer who served in Moscow and who was Secretary of the Carnegie Endowment before his appointment to the State Department post during the Carter Administration.

Sunday's session will be preceded by an Interfaith Service at the Princeton University Chapel with Donald W. Shriver Jr., president of Union Theological Seminary, New York City, preaching.

Addresses will be given Sunday afternoon by Tom Farer, professor of law at Rutgers University, Camden, and chairman of the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, an agency of the Organization of American States (O.A.S.); Lloyd Jeff Dumas, associate professor of political economy at the University of Texas in Dallas; and Robert J. Lifton, research professor in psychiatry, Yale University.

The final address, "Renewal and Hope in the Nuclear Age: A Theological Perspective," will be given early Sunday evening by William Sloane Coffin, senior minister of Riverside Church, New York City.

The Coalition to Reverse the Nuclear Arms Race was formed as a result of last year's teaching conference on this subject which drew 1,000 registrants to the serles of lectures and some 2,000 people to the interfaith worship service in the University Chapel. Dr. Wallace Alston Jr., senior minister of Nassau Presbyterian Church and chairman of the Coalition, says that the conference is intended "to bring the madness of thermonuclear politics into the consciousness and conversation of average citizens and to seek aller-

1 LOST, 1 FOUND

Moped Theft Report. Borough Police reported that a moped stolen last Wednesday from its parking place on Hulfish Street near Palmer Square East was recovered the next day at the rear of 108 Nassau Street. The $600 moped apparently had been abandoned by whoever took it.

Police were still searching for a moped that was taken sometime between Monday and Friday of last week from Jay's Cycles at 249 Nassau Street.

The moped, a red Motobecane valued at $750, belonged to a customer who had taken it to the shop for repairs. It was taken inside the store at night, and left outside during the day, police said. When the owner came to take it back, the moped was missing.

Two teenaged youths on a moped rode by a woman sitting at the bus stop at Library Place and Stockton Street and grabbed a purse from her lap. Police said the theft took place last Thursday at about 2 p.m.

The victim was described as a 70-year-old Trenton resident. Her purse was found later behind the Peacock Inn, minus the $2 in cash it contained.

Other Thefts. A resident of the University's Butler housing project off Harrison Street reported the theft of the rear wheel and gears from her 10-speed bicycle while it was locked to a steel column at the Princeton Shopping Center.

Township police reported the theft occurred Sunday between 3:40 and 4 p.m. while the woman was shopping at the supermarket. The loss was valued at $75.

A resident in the Snowden Lane area reported the theft of jewelry, a watch, and a broach with matching earrings sometime between last Monday and Saturday. Police report no signs of forced entry and that the home had been occupied except for short periods of time.

A Fairless Hills, Pa., resident reported the theft of a wallet from her purse in an office at Corwin Hall on the University campus. It occurred between 12:45 p.m. and 12:50 p.m last Friday. Thirty minutes before a Freehold resident reported the theft of $100 in travelers checks from an office in the Woodrow Wilson School, located next door to Corwin.

A wallet containing $150 in cash was reported stolen from the offices of the Gallup Poll at 52 Bank Street, sometime between 4:30 and 5 p.m. on Monday. The wallet belonged to a Princeton Township woman.

HOT PLATE CULPRIT?

In Walnut Lane Fire. Princeton firemen responded to a general alarm Thursday afternoon at the home of Donald R. Griffin, 471 Walnut Lane. Though the fire was contained in the kitchen, water and smoke damage was sustained throughout the house.

Fire Chief Ralph Hulit reported that the fire began in the kitchen and that a hot plate found on the counter may have caused the fire, either by a short circuit or by being left on. The house had been vacant since August 1,

PRINCETON BOROUGH-TOWNSHIP
TAX REVOLT COMMITTEE

QUESTION YOUR TAXES!!

TAKE ACTION NOW!!

DON'T GIVE UP!!

OUR GOALS:

★ To make it possible for all citizens, both homeowners and tenants to remain in their homes.

★ To take the necessary legal steps to overturn the new property revaluation.

★ To apply the appropriate pressure to the local governments to find immediate and new ways for the relief of those who have been drastically hurt by the new revaluation.

FACT: TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE AND BOROUGH COUNCIL were responsible for revaluation. Their action has caused great hardship for many PRINCETONIANS. Your tax problem is a LOCAL PROBLEM.

TAKE ACTION NOW . . . . . .

OPTIONS:

1) FILE AN APPEAL - Deadline for filing an appeal with the Mercer County Board is August 15th. Forms should be available at Borough Hall or Township Hall. If you need help filling out the form, seek help from the Assessor's Office.

2) DEFER YOUR TAX PAYMENTS - IT IS THE LAW . . . A property owner can put off paying taxes until June, 1982. The worst that will happen to you will be interest charges. Benefit: your interest charges are tax deductible. Your Homestead Rebate will still be credited against the taxes that you owe the municipality at the appropriate time.

Place real pressure on BOROUGH COUNCIL and TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE for their decision on REVALUATION. By withholding your taxes, the governments will be forced to find other ways to help property owners who have been badly hurt by REVALUATION. Local governments have created the problem. Force them to solve it.

Seek advice from an accountant or a banker for ways to make your withheld tax money work for you through June 1982.

ACTION:

3) JOIN THE FIGHT - Come to the next meeting of the PRINCETON BOROUGH-TOWNSHIP TAX REVOLT COMMITTEE this Friday night, 7:30 p.m. at the Princeton Italian American Sportsmen's Club on Terhune Road. THIS IS AN ACTION MEETING - NOT A DEBATE. This meeting is to discuss our COURT STRATEGY against P.R.C. Jacobs firm and the Borough-Township.

4) WE NEED YOUR HELP - Over 200 people attending our organizational meeting voted to contribute $25 per property owner to hire an outstanding attorney and a certified public accountant. Please bring your $25 check Friday evening so we can retain the best to lead us in court.

If you can't attend the meeting and wish to join the fight against REVALUATION, make your check payable to the Princeton Tax Revolt Committee and mail it to Co-Chairman George Pinelli, 214 Valley Road, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

Police said that the fire was reported at 2:34 p.m., when they received a call from a neighbor, Lawrence N. Houston, of 459 Walnut Lane, who reported smoke coming through the eaves of the house.

The firemen extinguished the blaze and remained on the scene for about an hour.

BUG-OF-THE-WEEK

By J. Drew Foster, Entomologist

PEACH TREE BORERS

The peach tree borers are another group of serious pests with low visibility to the homeowner. Two species of clearwing moths, the peach tree borer (PTB) and lesser peach tree borer (LPTB) infest peach, cherry, plum, and apricot trees, including ornamental varieties, and Juneberry (Amelanchier). Both insects are similar in appearance and damage, differing slightly in their times of emergence and location of infestation on trees.

The adults of both species have about a 1½ inch wing span, with clear wings. Their bodies are metallic blue with yellow bands on their abdomens. The female PTB has an orange-banded abdomen.

The larvae of both species do the damage, feeding on the cambium and inner bark of the host trees. They are cream-colored caterpillars with brown heads, up to about ¾ inch long.

The PTB infests the lower tree trunk near the root crown, including a few inches below the soil surface, laying eggs on the bark in these areas. Peak egg-laying is around late September.

The LPTB infests scars in the trunk and scaffold limbs and cracked bark near crotches. Egg laying can occur from May through September, with peak egg laying from mid-June to early July, and again in early September.

The best treatments are chemical applications to the trunk and limbs for LPTB, and lower trunk and root crown for PTB. Treatments should be timed so active chemical residues are present when eggs hatch.

Pheromone traps containing the attractive scent of the females are effective aids for properly timing sprays. The males in search of mates are attracted and caught, and thereby mating and egg laying activity can be determined. We are using these traps this season for timing our fall sprays. Contact us soon to be included in our PTB and LPTB surveys.

Henry Farr Estate Considering Fate of Nassau Street Property

NEW BUILDING? This burned-out gap is where the Value Fair store used to be. The fence scruffy with old posters, fire-blackened bricks visible over the fence-top, the site is unsightly. By the end of this month, interested parties may have decided whether to re-build now, or sell.

BUSINESS In Princeton

Build? Or sell and let somebody else build?

That decision may be made before Labor Day about the fire-blackened, fenced-in piece of Nassau Street property between Hulit's Shoes and the Hudibras restaurant, where the Value Fair store used to be.

"Eyesore!" neighboring merchants say. Value Fair burned over 18 months ago, in January, 1980, and from the outside it looks as though nothing much has been done. But things are moving.

For many years, the Farr Hardware store occupied the site, and the property belongs to the estate of Harry Farr, administered by Princeton Bank.

"We're considering the options," says William Porter, who handles the estate for the bank. "You have to think about the cost of money, when you think about re-building. Interest rates have gone up in the past 18 months, and we don't necessarily have the same choice now as we had then. But the chance of our selling is probably more than it was."

Since the fire, there has been legal action. Joseph Parvin, who owned Value Fair, took the Farr estate to court claiming that his lease was still in effect even though fire had destroyed the building. The estate said it regarded the lease as terminated by the fire and the court agreed. Mr. Parvin has appealed, and oral arguments are expected this fall.

Meanwhile, Mr. Parvin has purchased the liquor license of Rosso's Cafe on Spring Street (see story, page 1). He has not said where he plans to use the license.

The Planning Board's approval of Farr estate plans for a building, was appealed but the estate won that case, also.

Although a buyer might not necessarily want to build exactly what the Farr estate had in mind, brick by brick, the fact that the building already has Planning Board approval could make the property attractive to a buyer.

The Borough's new assessment for the property is $131,700.

EXPANSION PLANNED

By Princeton Gamma Tech.

Princeton Gamma-Tech, Inc. has received a New Jersey Economic Development Authority Loan of $2 million for construction of a 35,000 sq. ft. addition to its plants.

In announcing the EDA finnncing, Dr. Joseph A. Baicker, PGT's president stated that PGT's historical 35 per cent annual growth rate produces a constant need for planned plant expansion. The company's 47 per cent sales growth in the past year accelerated the need for plant and office space.

PGT owns and occupies two plants in the Princeton area comprising a total of 53,000 sq. ft. of floor space. In addition, 8,000 sq. ft. of leased space are occupied by Sales and Marketing.

The company also owns a field office in San Antonio, TX, from which Geophysical Services are provided to the Uranium and Oil industries. It occupies plant and sales office space in Wiesbaden, West Germany, and has sales offices in seven U.S. cities and in England. Its work force totals more than 200 persons.

The plant expansion planned in Princeton is part of a 5-year master development plan. The 10-acre site owned by PGT adjacent to the Princeton Airport will provide ample space for building an additional 85,000 sq. ft. of floor space, which ought to fill the company's needs until 1986.

Thirty Young Italians Are Spending August Here, Sharpening English Skills, Observing the Natives

Princeton is different from Rome. Different, also, from Cesena, Florence, Lake Como, Milano, Palermo . . .

And English is quite different from Italian.

Thirty young men and women from Italy, ages 17 to 23, are spending August in Princeton, sharpening their spoken English, learning the curious customs of Americans and seeing as much of the country as one can on a summer week-end.

Chosen in Italy for the program called "Inter Study" they come from Cesena, Rome, Milano, Lake Como and the rest. Under the supervision of Donald Blankenbush, social studies teacher in the John Witherspoon Middle School, they gather Monday, Tuesday and Thursday mornings in the school library for class work. Afternoons are for social and cultural excursions, Wednesdays for field-trips, weekends for free learning. Rhinold Ponder, who was graduated from Princeton University in June, is their teacher.

"Their English conversation has improved in just one week," Mr. Ponder says. "I don't correct every mistake they make. The idea is to make them more confident."

SAY IT IN ENGLISH: Teacher Rhinold Ponder (standing) guides four students from Italy through the mazes of the English language. The students are part of a group of 30 who will be in Princeton through August, studying mornings at the John Witherspoon school and exploring American culture in the afternoons.

The Sunday after they arrived, there was a pool party at the home of one of the host families. Although the group is slightly older than American high-school students, Mr. Blankenbush invited several members of the Peer Group at Princeton High School to the party for social and linguistic contact.

One day last week, three PHS students visited the class. The Italian visitors, divided into three groups, settled in for questions, answers and observations: "What do you do in your free time?" "Tell me about President Reagan's tax cuts." "I only speak English a few."

One young man in a lime green shirt with alligator, asked in a puzzled voice whether you had to wear an alligator to be a preppie, and was PHS junior Valentina Mazzucato, who was leading the group, a preppie?

"No," she said firmly. When someone asked why not, she explained, "I don't like the way they dress."

Clean Princeton, Dirty New York. Thumbing a pocket dictionary provided by Inter Study, one youth formed a statement: "Princeton is a clean city."

Another said "There is a very courteous traffic in Princeton," and a colleague compared Princeton to the English Cambridge.

What amused them all was the American concept of time. A youth from Rome smiled down from the ages when an American described the ship's bell outside Borough Hall as "old."

Last Wednesday, they all climbed into a bus and went to New York to visit the United Nations, Chinatown and Little Italy. So much more they would have like to see! Back in class on Thursday, they discussed the trip in English: "What did you like (dislike) most about New York?" (Answer: "It is dirty.")

The bus driver who drove them into the city was astonished, Mr. Blankenbush reports.

"He said, 'What a change from American kids!' and what he meant was, no litter. I guess one reason is they don't snack. They eat a very light breakfast. Lunch is an important meal, and they don't just nibble all day the way our kids do."

In Princeton, they have done the Orange Key tour of the Princeton University campus and will visit the Univeristy Art Museum, the plasma physics lab and so on.

"They loved the U. Store,"

MIKE'S VS. ANDY'S

In Softball Finals. Mike's Tavern, the first place finisher in the regular season of the Princeton Women's Slow Pitch Softball League, has advanced to the playoff championship round against Andy's Tavern, the third-place team in the league standings. The best-of-three series was scheduled for Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of this week. Games begin at 6:15 at Community Park.

Mike's coasted in the semi-finals, with identical 12-2 defeats of fourth-place Conte's. Dee Pearce doubled and homered in the first game, while Clare Baxter also hit a home run and singled. Sallie Toscano and Elizabeth Zingg both clouted triples for Mike's.

Cathy Burrough paced Conte's with two singles in three at bats.

Conte's outhit Mike's, 8-7, in the second game, but also committed eight errors. Pearce and Baxter both had two hits for the winners. Debbie Breithaupt drove in four runs with a triple and a sacrifice fly. Lorraine Duthie was the winning pitcher in both games.

For Conte's the offensive punch was provided again by Burroughs, who was 2-for-3, and by Harriet Staub, who homered.

Andy's Comes Back. Andy's had to struggle to overcome Koffee Kup, which finished one place higher in the regular season standings. Kup, paced by Judi Grisham (2-for-3 with a home run), Lisa Yates (2-for-3), Cathy Rice (2-for-2), and Jayme Edwards (a triple), defeated Andy's, 7-3, in the opening game.

Barbara Griggs and Cindy Henderson had two hits apiece for Andy's.

Aided by a fine defensive showing by shortstop Henderson, who participated in 10 of the game's 21 putouts, Andy's rebounded with a 13-4 win in the second game. Leading hitters for Andy's included Marie Wszolek (2-for-4), Maureen Nosal (3-for-4), Karla Pullen (two hits, one a triple), and Carol Auster (2-for-4).

For Koffee Kup, Grisham was 3-for-4 at bat. Barbara Rice, Spring Taylor, Joanne Rice, and Cathy Rice all had two hits for the losers.

Raquel Brewer slammed a three-run homer to put Kup

STRAIGHT SET WINNERS: Princeton residents Susan Hahn and Linda Loberg, from the left, defeated Marilee Thompson, right, also of Princeton and Karen Davis, not pictured, 6-3, 7-5, to win the women's 4.5 and under doubles tournament. The competition was sponsored by the Princeton Community Tennis Program.

dethroned by the Cranbury Swim Club in the league championships last weekend at Community Park Pool.

Cranbury won with 466 points, followed by Nassau, 374; Valley, 364; Community Park, 346; West Windsor, 289; and Pennbrook, 274.

Sue Perfater, a Hun School alumna, was named the meet's outstanding diver after winning both the 17-and-under and the open competition. Former Princeton University record holder Chuck Hector, who has not competed since his graduation in 1978, won the open 100 breaststroke in record time of 1:05.21.

WOOD SCORES TEN

In Lacrosse Playoffs. Midfielder Charlie Wood scored five goals in the semi-finals, and registered five more plus three assists in the finals to lead the Orange team to the championship of the Princeton Lacrosse League.

The Orange, paced also by Dave O'Connor's four goals and one assist, defeated the Red, 15-13, in the semi-finals. The Red, led by Ed Mitzkewich's seven goals and Bob Campbell's four tallies, had a one-goal lead at the end of three quarters.

Orange scorers also included Bill Erdman, Jeff Rosenberg, and Hal Kokes, who scored two apiece. Scott Waterman scored twice for the Red.

The other semi-final was won by Green, which defeated Navy, 8-6. Mike Shannon, John Hutter, and Alex Wert each scored twice for the winners.

All-Stars Triumph. The Princeton Lacrosse League's all-star team won its third straight game, defeating the Hunterdon Lacrosse Club, 13-6. Charlie Wood was again the high scorer, with four goals.

The all-star team included attackmen Dave O'Connor, Jeff Rosenberg, Alex Wert, Hawley Waterman, Mace Wohrman, and Dave Rosenbloom. The midfielders are Wood, Bob Campbell, Jim Delang, Hal Kokes, Bruce Lincoln, Chris McDonald, John Taylor, Verio Danial, Morgan Mohrman, Chris Harford, Bob Cottrell, Justin Magruder, and Dave Ruslin.

The defensemen are Pete Schluter, Dan Bulk, Mike Leahy, and Jim Sweetland. All-star goalies include Tom Florence, Andy Markoe, and Jeff Olsson.

LONGMAN TAKES FIRST

In Tennithon. Marty Longman has been named top money-winner in the 1981 Junior Tennithon. Sponsored mainly by area businessmen, Longman just topped runner-up Jimmy Zorzi and third-place finisher Paul Crystal. Juniors taking lessons with the Princeton Community Tennis Program raised almost $1,200 to benefit the program's scholarship fund and junior activities.

In addition to placing second in the earnings category of the Tennithon competition, Zorzi won recognition for obtaining 76 sponsors, the largest amount for any player this year. Crystal edged Jamie Trowbridge for the most games played, 221-220.

Michael Crystal won 144 of 200 games played and finished fifth among the top money earners. Other winners were David Stier, Andy Petrone, Bill Coker, Christine Nalbone, Emeka Obianwu, Chike Obianwu, Martin Obianwu, Ben Hankinson, Karen Lytle, and Janice Gossman.

TENNIS FORUM SET

At Princeton University, David Benjamin, varsity tennis coach at Princeton University and director of the Princeton University Tennis Camp, will host a college open house Wednesday, August 19, from 8 to 10 p.m. at Jadwin Gymnasium on the Princeton campus. All junior tennis players, their parents, coaches and friends are invited.

Bridgestone 40,000 Mile Limited Warranty

Every Bridgestone Passenger Car Steel Belted Radial Tire, except snow and original equipment tires, for use on passenger cars only, is warranted by Bridgestone for 40,000 miles of tread wear within 48 months from date of purchase, and for materials and workmanship for the original useable tread depth (2/32") without limit to time or mileage. If tread wears down to 2/32" before the mileage or time specified, in exchange for the worn tire Bridgestone will replace the tire, charging the customer for tread wear, pro-rated by multiplying the Bridgestone Suggested Retail Price of the tire in effect at the time of adjustment including F.E.T. by percentage of warranted mileage that has been run on the tire. If a tire fails due to defective materials or workmanship, Bridgestone will replace the tire, charging for tread wear, pro-rated by multiplying the retail price (as described above) by the percentage of useable tread depth that has been worn from the tire. If such failure occurs during the first quarter of warranty, the tire will be replaced at no charge. To receive a replacement tire under this warranty, present your tire, invoice, and Warranty Certificate to any authorized Bridgestone Dealer. This warranty is not assignable and does not cover tires rendered unserviceable due to misalignment, improper mounting or inflation, road hazards, mechanical or body irregularities, fire, collision, commercial or off-road service, or other unreasonable uses. Bridgestone tube type tires must be used with proper sized Bridgestone tubes exclusively. This warranty gives you specific legal rights, and you may also have other rights which vary from state to state.
The above is a summary of Bridgestone's 40,000 Mile Limited Warranty.
A complete copy is available from your Bridgestone Dealer.

DEMONSTRATION SET

By Artist at Gallery 100. Richard Kaiser, an artist from Monmouth Junction, will demonstrate drawing and composition and watercolor techniques in the window at Gallery 100 Saturday from 10 to noon and 1-3.

Mr. Kaiser is a graduate of the Art Institute of Pittsburgh who has also studied under Krakusen of Colgate University and John Pike in Woodstock, N.Y. He worked in commercial art in Columbus, Ohio, and Pittsburgh, Pa., doing illustrations for companies such as Alcoa, Westinghouse, U.S. Steel, Pfizer Corp. and Johnson & Johnson.

His paintings are in many private collections and he has had several one-man shows. In addition to his commercial art, he also teaches watercolor classes, drawing and composition, watercolor workshops and life drawing.

EXHIBIT PLANNED

By Three Artists. Three young artists from Oklahoma are exhibiting their work in "Chasing the Jurassics" at the Princeton Performing Arts Center on Saturday and Sunday.

The three friends, Drew Curtis, Michael Rahill and Gary Shilling have recently moved to Princeton for artistic reasons as well as proximity to New York.

Mr. Shilling most recently exhibited his work in a one-man show at "Perceptions," an Oklahoma City gallery which exhibits young artists. Both Mr. Curtis and Mr. Rahill have had work shown at the World Trade Center's recent "Artists U.S.A." exhibit sponsored by the Keane-Mason Gallery.

The new Princeton Performing Arts Center is located at 25A Witherspoon Street (behind the Athenian restaurant). For more information, call 924-1917 or 921-6271.

P.A.A. PLANS TRIP

To Pennsylvania. The Princeton Art Association has scheduled a trip to the Philadelphia Art Museum and in Phoenixville, Pa. for Wednesday, August 19.
nesday, August 19.

The bus will leave from the Princeton Shopping Center lot at 9 and return between 5 and 5:30. The trip offers an opportunity to see Picasso's work now on view at the Philadelphia Museum, including prints, drawings and paintings from both the museum's collection and important outside collections. At 10 a docent tour of the exhibit is scheduled, followed by a lecture in the auditorium on the "Paintings of Picasso."

After lunch at the museum, there will be a short trip to Phoenixville to visit a group of Japanese gardens. The Gardens offer an opportunity for quiet contemplation and appreciation of the spare beauty of this particular art form.

To reserve a place on this trip, call the PAA studios on Rosedale Road at 921-9173.

Visiting Students

Mr. Ponder reports, "especially all the engineering books. I think many would like to come to the United States to study. They ask a lot of questions about college costs."

Interpreting "Ivy League." Afternoons and week-ends, they explore the community that is their summer home. Jewelers Workbench in Mercer Mall has provided movie passes (the shop's owner is a host to one of the students). They took a bus to Quakerbridge Mall, curious to see for the first time that American phenomenon, the shopping mall.

One day, having confidently pencilled "IVY LEAGUE" in big letters on a poster-board, Mr. Ponder found himself trying to explain the concept of the Ivy League to students who weren't even quite sure that "ivy" was, or what connection a green-leaved vine might have with a large university.

Always, the students ask questions. Mr. Ponder confesses. "You have to be prepared to say 'I don't know.' On the way to New York — what's the name of this bridge or that bridge, this river or that waterway?"

What is often called "the language barrier" can create a bond, Mr. Blankenbush has found. Not all the Italians are easy in English; in fact, some have very little English at all.

But in a family with teenagers close to their own age, the repeating and explaining, and teaching and learning, make friendly relationships develop quickly.

Got a Spare Room?

Because so many families go away on vacation in August, Donald Blankenbush is finding it difficult to place his young Italian men and women in Princeton homes.

If you would like to have as your guests one of the Inter Study youths, you may reach Mr. Blankenbush at the John Witherspoon Middle School, 924-5600, Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays, or at his home, 737-1826 (or 737-1630).

The students are between 17 and 23 years of age. Some of them speak English fairly well, others hardly at all. They are young adults and are free, under the terms of the program, to travel and go about as they wish.

The Italians have discovered there is no longer any "typical American family." Several are guests of single parents. Two are guests of two retired men who had been teachers. A few are staying with Italian families, but most are not.

Very Political. Both Mr. Blankenbush and Mr. Ponder perceive the Italian students as highly political. Conceding the age difference, Mr. Blankenbush says he regards the Italians as genuinely political, whereas Princeton teen-agers are, as he phrased it, "more idealisitc, more John F. Kennedy and Camelot."

The students apparently arrived in this country with the idea that President Reagan is not popular. "Why was he elected if he is not popular?" is a frequent, puzzled question.

They want to know how Americans feel about Iran, about the military and most particularly, about tax cuts.

They asked a reporter "What kind of newspaper is TOWN TOPICS?" "Is is a cultural journal?"

Politics, yes. Practicing English, yes. But still . . .

"In your journal," asked one young man, with a soft smile, "would you write that here in Princeton are many handsome young Italian men, and . . ."

OBITUARIES

Thomas R. Carver, a professor of physics at Princeton University, died of a heart attack on August 8, at his summer home in Maine. He was 52 years old.

Born in Rochester, N.Y., Dr. Carver received an A.B. degree from Harvard University in 1950 and a Ph.D. from the University of Illinois in 1954. He joined the Princeton faculty as an instructor in 1954 and rose to the rank of professor in 1967.

Dr. Carver maintained a lifelong fascination with electron and nuclear spins. He was the first to demonstrate experimentally the dynamic polarization of nuclear spin. This work, which he carried out as a graduate student, showed that nuclear polarization of lithium, placed in a magnetic field, could be increased by a large factor through saturation of conduction electron spins with resonant radiofrequency fields.

As a young instructor at Princeton University in the late 1950's, Dr. Carver was one of the first to make use of the newly discovered technique of optical pumping to polarize atomic and nuclear spins. He invented, along with Mr. Arditi, the gas-cell optically-pumped frequency standard.

Dr. Carver constructed the first atomic clock, based on rubidium vapor.

He had served as a consultant for the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation's Federal Laboratories at Nutley, N.J. His articles and reports appeared in Science, the American Journal of Physics, Physical Review and other scientific journals. He was a Fellow of the American Physical Society and a member of the American Association of Physics Teachers and Sigma Xi.

His research has been supported by grants from the Sloan, Guggenheim and National Science foundations.

Among his survivors are his wife, Eleanore Bie Benson Carver; a son, Davis, of Bath, Me.; and a daughter, Alison, of Princeton.

The funeral was private. There will be a memorial service in Maine at a date still to be set.

A TOUCH OF CLASS

Imagine how nice I look forty years after this picture was taken. I was built on Prospect Avenue in 1940. They thoughtfully included a gracious entrance, front-to-back living room with fireplace and a lovely dining room. There are four corner bedrooms and two and one half baths. You've probably noticed I am made of brick and have a fine slate roof. $220,000

ROSSO OF ROSSO'S: Henry Rosso Jr. was barely a teenager when his father opened Rosso's Cafe in 1933. He began working there full time in 1945. The exact kind of restaurant operation that will replace the bar remains to be determined.

Rosso's Cafe

That pace was no doubt a reflection of Mr. Rosso's own lifestyle. A 1940 graduate of Princeton High School, he worked days in the bar, opening at 7 a.m., while his father worked nights. He took the business over when his father died in 1960. Mr. Rosso, who does not own or drive a car, has commuted to work by a 10-minute walk from Madison Street. He and his sister Rose still live there. They are the sole survivors of Henry Sr.

Since 1966, the bartender at night has been Joe Toto, who grew up in Princeton and graduated from Princeton High in 1953. Many people frequented Rosso's for the chance to visit with Mr. Toto during slack hours.

Rosso's was never a hangout for rowdies. Chronic miscreants were given "the life sentence" -- banished from the bar forever by Mr. Rosso and Mr. Toto.

Those who frequented Rosso's Cafe were the kind of people who would enjoy watching a long and low-scoring baseball game. Few college students ever had the patience to stay for long at Rosso's. But those who did sometimes had their eyes opened.

Rosso's to Amherst. Every so often an undergraduate who could not fathom life without an automobile would discover that Mr. Rosso has traveled to more places in Europe than any of the student's friends or relatives. A few students who went to Rosso's because they thought they were slumming it would discover that the bartender, Mr. Toto, was working to help send his three children to the Hun School and on to college. One son is a graduate of Rutgers, another of Rider, and Mr. Toto's daughter begins her junior year at Amherst in the fall.

Once during the 1972 Presidential campaign a college student began talking politics with an older black man. The student asked the man whom he preferred -- Nixon or McGovern. "Neither one. My candidate got shot." The student smiled enthusiastically. "Yeah. I was for Bobby Kennedy, too." The black man shook his head. "No, I mean George Wallace. He's the only honest one in the bunch."

"Don't write about all this," requested Mr. Rosso, when asked about the closing. "It's just another business. No one cares."

The charm of Rosso's Cafe was that most people didn't even know about the place. But many of those who did also cared about it. They showed up last Friday night when Mr. Rosso offered his regular customers free food and drinks. "I love all these people," said Mr. Rosso, gesturing toward the crowd that was gathered for the last hurrah. A small hand-lettered sign served as the only formal notice of the closing: "Rosso's Cafe, 1933-1981. Thank you all."

—Richard K. Rein

Palmer Square

• The design of the residential part is to be reviewed, to make sure the area is secure and has no safety hazards. Security shall be provided on a 24-hour basis.

• The Borough engineer must approve performance guarantees on snow removal and utilities.

• Collins must show proof of financial capability, so that if the project isn't completed, there will be no adverse effect on the Borough.

The lone "no" vote was cast by Planning Board chairman Margen Penick, who had made a strong plea for eliminating the lantern building.

She would have preferred to leave the space in front of the post office in grass, as a "village green," she said. Mr. Harvie had explained several times during the hearings that the lantern was recommended by Roy Williams, Collins' retail consultant who was a consultant for Baltimore's Harborside. It would be a beacon, inviting people into the Square, Mr. Harvie said. The board voted 7-4 to allow Collins to build the lantern.

But Mrs. Penick was not convinced that the retail success of Palmer Square swung from the lantern. At the time of the final vote, she spoke of the "enormous enthusiasm" of board members for the plan.

A Symbolic 'No.' "The plan is 99 percent wonderful," she declared, "but I cannot vote for a plan that takes the town square out of the town. My 'no' is a symbolic gesture. We are witnessing a great loss for a small gain simply on the opinion of someone from Baltimore."

It was Elizabeth Hutter who abstained. She gave no reasons, but several of her ideas had been rejected by the board, including an appeal to Collins to provide a movie theatre and requiring Collins to close off the common open space belonging to residential units.

Although most board members were too exhausted by 1 a.m. to speak if they didn't have to, several responded to Mrs. Penick's invitation to comment before the vote, and all who spoke praised the plan.

This week, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley said discussions will continue about financing the Chambers garage, which will be built on Borough-owned land. Collins, he said, would like to break ground December 1.

The firm must now do the detailed designing it has not yet done, keeping it "harmonious" -- whatever that may be – with the Princeton that is already here. Collins will be back before the Planning Board many times.

"We've made the watershed decision," said Mayor Cawley, who sits on the Planning Board and who made the formal motion to approve the plan, "the general outlines are now set."

Loop Buses Saved

Princeton's Inner and Outer Loop buses have been saved and so has the "P" bus after 7 p.m., Mercer County Freeholder Barbara Sigmund announced this week.

The Inner and Outer loops have been placed on a "Possible Phase Two" list of inquiry, which means they are safe at least until January, 1982, with possible study of their usefulness after that time.

Mrs. Sigmund reported a 500 percent increase in Outer Loop passengers after the addition of trips to Quaker Bridge Mall. She also said that the buses showed up well financially: the Outer Loop subsidy per passenger is 67 cents and the Inner Loop is 81 cents, compared to a New Jersey state average of 87 cents.
